

CAMPUS PROGRAMMING

To Whom It May Concern:

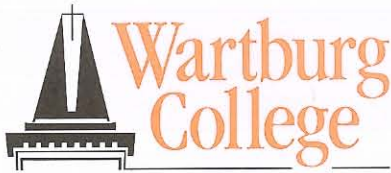

As with any Orientation program, Wartburg College sets an objective to provide programming that focuses on the issues of being responsible and recognizing new freedoms one may have in life as a college student. Mike Dormitz and his presentation, "Can I Kiss You?", went beyond our expectations in reaching our goal.

Mike recognizes the need for his program to be interactive and include humor in order to discuss issues that challenge the values, attitudes and behaviors of college students. As part of Mike's program, we also showcased our Health Services, Counseling Center and a local crisis agency, so students could identify resources concerning sexual assault on campus and in the community. Mike's interaction with our students was amazing. Not only was Mike great during the program, he was also easy-going before and after the presentation. The Orientation Staff (upper-class students) were quick to approach me about not only bringing Mike back for next year's Orientation programming but at a time where all the campus could hear his message. "Can I Kiss You?" was one of the more noted programs in our Orientation evaluations from new students.

I highly recommend Mike Dormitz to speak to your campus concerning the prevalent issues of healthy relationships, consent, and sexual assault. "Can I Kiss You?" is a great program that can start or compliment conversations and additional programming on your campus concerning students and their relationships. As a student affairs professional, I appreciate his message and dedication to the work he has committed himself to.

Sincerely,

Sarah K. Glascock
Director of Campus Programming

CAMPUS PROGRAMMING

To Whom It May Concern:

As with any Orientation program, Wartburg College sets an objective to provide programming that focuses on the issues of being responsible and recognizing new freedoms one may have in life as a college student. Mike Dormitz and his presentation, "Can I Kiss You?", went beyond our expectations in reaching our goal.

Mike recognizes the need for his program to be interactive and include humor in order to discuss issues that challenge the values, attitudes and behaviors of college students. As part of Mike's program, we also showcased our Health Services, Counseling Center and a local crisis agency, so students could identify resources concerning sexual assault on campus and in the community. Mike's interaction with our students was amazing. Not only was Mike great during the program, he was also easy-going before and after the presentation. The Orientation Staff (upper-class students) were quick to approach me about not only bringing Mike back for next year's Orientation programming but at a time where all the campus could hear his message. "Can I Kiss You?" was one of the more noted programs in our Orientation evaluations from new students.

I highly recommend Mike Dormitz to speak to your campus concerning the prevalent issues of healthy relationships, consent, and sexual assault. "Can I Kiss You?" is a great program that can start or compliment conversations and additional programming on your campus concerning students and their relationships. As a student affairs professional, I appreciate his message and dedication to the work he has committed himself to.

Sincerely,

Sarah K. Glascock
Director of Campus Programming